

Open Methodist Building Campaign With Dinner At Branchville Nov. 9

By Russell Greenbaum

The Building Fund Crusade of the Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church of Greenbelt will be officially launched with a "kick-off" dinner at the Branchville Methodist Church, Monday, November 9, at 6:30 p.m. Preparations for the dinner are being handled by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Branchville Church.

First goal of the Building Fund Crusade is $10,000. Another sum of $5,000 has already been appropriated by the Baltimore Conference Board of Missions toward a new church. These funds, when added to those currently available, will permit construction to begin within the next three or four months.

The new church will be built on a site at 40 Ridge Road, which has been owned by the church since 1949. The final survey of the building site has been completed, and the services of the architectural firm of McLeod and Ferrara of Washington have been contracted.

The current building crusade is being carried on in conjunction with an overall crusade of the Baltimore Conference for $800,000. The Greenbelt church will contribute $600 from its building fund drive toward this overall program.

Early Days

The first Methodist church in Greenbelt was a chapel on Woodland way. Services were first held there in November, 1946, under the ministry of the Rev. Chester J. Craig. For several years prior to that time a small group of Methodists held regular services at the homes of members of the congregation.

The church was named Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church because Alexander Mowatt and the late Mrs. Mowatt of College Park gave the chapel in memory of their son, Lt. Frank G. Mowatt, who was killed in action on his 31st mission as fighter pilot in 1944.

A few years later the Methodist Church was one of several religious groups in Greenbelt which succeeded in securing building locations. The congregation, then under the leadership of the Rev. Raymond W. Cooke, purchased its site from the federal government on February 9, 1949.

Meanwhile, the church was outgrowing the accommodations of the chapel on Woodland Way. Facilities were also inadequate for the church school. Beginning on April 20, 1952, services were held at the North End School, which was offered by the Board of Education for religious meetings.

Present minister of the church is the Rev. C. R. Strausburg, a veteran of more than 50 years in the pulpit, who came out of retirement in 1951 to accept the ministry. H. B. Miles, a divinity student, was recently appointed associate to assist the minister in his duties.

Anyone desiring further information about the "kick-off" dinner, which is open to all persons, should contact Mrs. Dora McNeel, chairman for the dinner, at GRanite 3-8013.

Center Kindergarten Has Room For More

The waiting list at the Center School Kindergarten can now accept additional pupils. All interested parents are asked to call Mrs. Nora Levisky, 4341.

Tuition for Kindergarten children must be paid by the 15th of each month. All parents who have not paid for the month of October are urged to do so by mailing it to Mrs. Helen Dondy, 6-K Ridge, for Center school, or Mrs. Ann Radko, 4-U Laurel Hill, for the North End school.

HOW WELL DO YOU KNOW GREENBELT?

1. What do the Greenbelt City ordinances have to say about bicycle riding and ownership?
2. What is the rule about BB guns?
3. Are there any ordinances covering the quarantine of contagious diseases?
4. Does Greenbelt have its own speed regulations?
5. Is the service of the nurse who visits the Greenbelt schools each day supported by the county, the city, or PTA funds?

Local Social Service Aided By Chest Funds

By Rae Algaze

This time of year, when the volunteer worker for the Community Chest Federation makes the rounds soliciting contributions, it would be well for Greenbelters to consider the agency of the Social Service League of Prince Georges County.

Mrs. Elizabeth Goldfaden, executive secretary of the Social Service League and wife of Greenbelt Councilman Ben Goldfaden, reported this week that thus far in 1953 her agency has given service to eleven Greenbelt families. Two of these families received financial aid, while the others were assisted with counseling and casework in regard to personal or family problems. The greater part of the requests were for the solution of marital problems.

The Social Service League, located at 3723 34th Street in Mt. Rainier, also acts as cooperating representative for the Traveler's Aid Society. Part of the work of this League is the safe return of run-away boys and girls to their homes. Mrs. Goldfaden stated that one girl and three boys from this county had been reunited with their families this year through this service. Run-aways often appeal directly to the Traveler's Aid Society when they are out of money, or they are turned over to the Society by the police or some social agency. The Traveler's Aid of that city then contacts the Social Service League by telephone or wire and the League immediately contacts the family. Arrangements are then made for the child's return. Follow-up work with counseling in the area of parent-child relationships usually follows this contact.

County Rec Dep Starts Teen-Club Workshop

The Prince George's County Recreation Department will conduct an In-Service Training Workshop for directors of teen clubs on Tuesday evening, November 10 from 8 to 10:30 p.m. at the Old Gym, University of Maryland.

The Workshop is designed to give directors of teen clubs techniques of leading activities, new ideas and an opportunity to discuss teen club problems. Ellen Linson, Recreation Director, will outline the objectives of the teen clubs and their relation to the community; social games, and dance mixers will be taught by Joseph Halper and Herbert Rathner, Recreation Department supervisors. Dr. Ellen Harvey, Head of Recreation Training, University of Maryland, will lead the discussion on teen club problems.

The Prince George's County Recreation Department, in cooperation with community groups, is now conducting eight teen clubs in the County with four clubs scheduled to open soon. The Recreation Department provides a trained recreation director for the club and the community sponsoring group provides adult chaperons and advice. Teen Club members assume all other responsibilities, finance their own activities, enact their own by-laws and plan their own programs.

County Chest Drive Hits Halfway Mark

The Prince Georges County Community Chest Drive for 1954 has hit the 50 per cent mark, according to Chairman Phil Lustine. Full quota for the County is $65,000.

The fiery little Chest Chairman has promised to wheel any county chairman whose area beats Prince Georges over the 100 per cent down the main street of their town in a wheel barrow. And he's let friends know "Prince Georges better come in first... that's all there is to it."

Council Forms 7-Man Group For Tax Study

The city council delayed until the next meeting selection of seven Greenbelt citizens to serve on a "tax study" committee. Delay resulted from the nomination of several citizens who were unqualified to serve when it was learned they were not registered voters, as required by the resolution establishing the committee.

At the council meeting of October 19, they approved a plan to form a 7-man citizens' committee to study taxes in Greenbelt. The group will study taxes and services, and make comparisons with other communities and then make recommendations to the city council and city manager.

This year's budget will not come under their scrutiny as it is considered too late to give the budget adequate study. However, future budgets will be influenced by their recommendations, it is expected.

Mrs. Thelma Finlay appeared at the meeting to protest the high tax rate and request that taxes be lowered in the future. Mrs. Finlay owns a home in Parkbelt, and declared that her tax bill is out of line with surrounding communities. She liked the services, but felt that many county services were duplicated in Greenbelt. "A careful study and proper planning will go far to curb our inflated tax rate," she declared.

Mayor Frank Lastner assured her that the city will have a much lower tax rate next year, primarily because of a new county assessment on Greenbelt property. "I'm sure you will find a substantial reduction in taxes next year," he asserted. "Our city manager has shown a very economical operation this year and there will be a large surplus to carry over into next year," Lastner added.

Mrs. Finlay was asked whether she would care to serve on the citizen's tax committee. "I'm sure," she responded, "that I would learn a lot on this committee and would be glad to serve. The only thing I know now - is that taxes are too high!"

Library Transfer Rumor Gets Crowd At Council; Ask Study Of Problem

By I. J. Parker

A crowd of 30 citizens attended the city council meeting last Monday night, brought by a rumor that the city was contemplating the integration of the Greenbelt city library with the county library system. Mayor Lastner disclosed that the council had not anticipated such a move, but that a serious study of the problem should be made.

Many citizens declared that they were convinced that the city should keep its own library, which was termed by a Maryland University research staffer as "second only to the Enoch Pratt library of Baltimore in the state."

City Manager Charles McDonald was asked to compare the two systems. He disclosed that the county requires that the city provide the space, heat and light, and the county provides the personnel. Library hours under county direction would be every evening and Saturday. The county would receive about 12 cents per citizen from the state, which the city does not get now.

Also, the county does not provide a librarian, but employs persons less qualified: probably library clerks. Its index system is too centralized and not up to standards, McDonald declared.

Greenbelt library books would become county books, subject to transfer to other libraries, but could be restored to the city if Greenbelt decided at a later date to return to a municipal system. Appropriations to the library amount to about $11,000 a year in Greenbelt, he added.

Citizens asked that a complete report be made on the comparison of the two systems, and the advantages and disadvantages of both systems outlined and presented at a later date.

St. Hugh's Parents Plan Festival, Supper Nov. 22

St. Hugh's Parents Guild is sponsoring a Thanksgiving festival featuring a covered dish supper to be served Sunday, November 22, in St. Hugh's Parish Hall from 5 until 7 p.m.

A drawing for 12 turkeys will be held. The birds, fresh-killed and fully dressed, will be delivered to the lucky winners anywhere in the metropolitan area.

Joseph Hanyok is general chairman for the festival and will be assisted by Mrs. Frank Ging, in charge of the supper, and Theodore Stavish, chairman of the turkey raffle committee. Tickets may be purchased from any member of St. Hugh's Parents Guild.

Band Parents Plan Square Dance Nov. 13

A regular quarterly meeting of Band Members Parents was held in the Center School October 12. After reports by the officers had been presented and accepted, the future course of the Band and Majorette organization was discussed. The group voted that a Drum and Bugle Corps be developed and that accordionists in and around Greenbelt be organized as another auxiliary of the Greenbelt Band Organization.

A square dance is again planned for Nov. 13, at the Center School for teenagers and adults. The Majorettes will be invited to perform. A New Year's Dance is also being planned at the Center School. Should it be a round or square dance? Cast your vote by phoning Joseph Remnick at GR. 3-8117. For information regarding membership call Mrs. Bartholomew at GR. 3-3367.

Majorette tryouts are still being held Tuesday night from 7 to 8 p.m. in the Center School auditorium. Contact Mrs. Ethel Perazoli at GR. 3-7781

Hanukkah Candles To Provide Holiday Fun

As usual, Hanukkah candles are being sold by the Jewish Community Center Sunday school at fifty cents a box, all profits to be used by the school for the children's holiday parties. Beulah Bukzin is taking orders for the candles at 3751.

The Sunday School committee is already deep in plans for celebrating this holiday which commemorates the Hebrew victory, under the Maccabees, over Antiochus Epiphanes and the Romans. Eight days of candlelighting will be from December 2 to 9 inclusive, this year.

BB GUNNERS MEET AT ARMORY FRIDAY

The BB gun club will again be in action this Friday evening at the usual time. All members from 1 to 30, and all those who signed up the last Friday evening will meet at the Armory this Friday evening, November 6.

Council Passes Resolution To Keep Future Greenbelt "Garden City"

The resolution printed below was passed by the City Council last Monday night. It served notice to future developers, builders, and purchasers of undeveloped property in Greenbelt that the city will insist on zoning regulations and principles that would keep Greenbelt a "planned garden community", which would follow in spirit the Hale Walker plan for Greenbelt filed in the National Capital Park and Planning Commission office.

Because of quickly-developing negotiations for the sale of property in Greenbelt, the resolution was passed for a second reading the night it was presented. City Solicitor Ralph Powers suggested that the city pass ordinances in the future that will put teeth in the resolution and protect the city and home-buyer in Greenbelt from failure to conform to the regulations.

RESOLUTION CONTAINING DETERMINATIONS OF CITY OF GREENBELT CONCERNING PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT OF LAND IN GREENBELT, MARYLAND

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland in March 1947, passed a resolution authorizing the study and preparation of a Master Zoning Plan and Building Code for the City of Greenbelt, Maryland and providing for the appointment of an advisory committee on zoning; and

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland in July 1948, passed a second resolution approving the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission zoning ordinance for Prince Georges County; and

WHEREAS, said Maryland Capital Parks and Planning Commission has seen fit to zone the City of Greenbelt in a "Planned Residential Community" which permits the construction of only single family detached houses prior to rezoning and further contemplates that there will be a Master Plan of Land Use which will be applicable to the entire City; and

WHEREAS, the City has made determinations which it proposes to have established in connection with the Master Plan of Land Use for the use of the undeveloped land in Greenbelt outside of the Shopping Center; and

WHEREAS, by this resolution the City desires to give notice of these determinations so that there will be no misunderstandings on the part of the purchasers or owners of said undeveloped land and so that they can make their plans in the light of these determinations; and

WHEREAS, the objectives of the determinations of the City are: (1) to continue the town planning principles which were applied in the original development of Greenbelt; (2) to maintain the plan for a "green belt" to protect the central areas of the City which are developed in higher densities; (3) to avoid through traffic in new areas of residential development; (4) to make adequate reservations for future playground, park and school sites to serve the new residential areas; and (5) to require new developments to pay the cost of extending utilities and roads, in order to avoid City expenditures therefor in view of the necessity for achieving a reasonable City tax rate; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary that this Resolution be adopted now to serve the best interests of the citizens of Greenbelt and to protect the community;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland as follows:

That developers of vacant land in the City of Greenbelt should contemplate no developments which do not conform to the following:

1. Payment by the developer, or provision for payment, from sources other than the City of Greenbelt, for all capital costs incurred in connection with development work on such vacant land, including costs of (a) extending the system of water mains and sewer drains; (b) increasing the size of the sewage treatment plant; and (c) constructing streets, roads or other utilities.
2. Compliance by the developer with high standards for construction of streets, roads and utilities in order that the costs of municipal maintenance may be kept to a minimum.
3. Compliance by the developer with the provisions of the Master Plan of Land Use, as amended from time to time, including those relating to: (a) the application of sound town planning principles to new developments; (b) avoiding through traffic in new areas of residential development; (c) making adequate reservations for future playground, park and school sites to serve newly-developed residential areas; and (d) maintaining the "Greenbelt" plan for a central higher-density area of development surrounded by a "green belt" of low-density development, parks, agricultural or other such uses.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That This Resolution Shall Become Effective On The Date Of Its Passage.

PASSED by the Council of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland at regular meeting November 2, 1953.

FRANCIS J. LASTNER, Mayor.

WINFIELD McCAMY, City Clerk.

G. V. H. C. QUARTERLY MEETING Thursday, December 3 GREENBELT THEATRE

Please present petitions or items for the agenda to the Board by November 13. Bruce Bowman, Secy.

By Dorothy McGee, phone 8083

Fireman James Hanna, serving with the Sixth Fleet in the 22nd Division, Navy, returned last weekend from six months in the Mediterranean countries, Turkey, France, Greece, Spain and Italy. It was good to get back home to 46-A Ridge, and particularly good to see baby Ruth Christine, the Hannas' year old daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Eric Braund spent several days last week in Montclair, New Jersey, attending the Congress of Congregational Christian Churches.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. John Grove, 10-C Hillside upon the loss of their infant son. The baby was born prematurely three weeks ago.

A subscription to the Cooperator is being sent, without charge, to PFC Brian Paris, now on duty with the 10th Marine Division in the Mediterranean area. Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paris, 11-C Hillside. Relatives of servicemen overseas may request for them, free subscriptions to the Cooperator.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Murray, 45-G Ridge, had as house guests, this past weekend, her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Timreck, with her three children, from Atlantic City.

Fourteen people were present Tuesday evening at the first meeting of the child-study group in the North End School auditorium. Adding greatly to the lively discussion were two North End teachers, Mrs. Isenock and Mr. O'Laughlin.

Among several Greenbelters and their families spotted in attendance at the UN Day ceremonies held at the University of Maryland on October 25 were Alberta Tompkins, Helen Rubin, Adele Feingersh, Rae Algaze, and others. An appreciative audience of about 250 persons enjoyed a program consisting of a puppet show, foreign and American songs, and folk dances. Governor McKeldin, who highlighted the affair, accepted a scroll containing signatures of persons living in our fifth congressional district, who showed their support of the United Nations. The scroll extended halfway around the auditorium. Governor McKeldin's talk emphasized the need of a UN for the preservation of world peace, stating this is not one world, but one neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hampton, 7-G Research, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Cynthia Ann, on October 25 at Prince Georges Hospital. Mrs. Hampton is the former Marilyn Bierwagen.

Nursery School Opens Rolls For Second Class

The Greenbelt Cooperative Nursery School is considering opening a second session in order to admit more children. All three- and four-year olds are qualified for admittance. If a second session is started, the older children will attend in the afternoon and the younger ones in the morning. Mrs. Ruth Bowman, a qualified nursery school teacher, will be in charge of both sessions.

All applications will have to be received by the school before November 9. For further information, call GRanite 4-8451.

Lions-Co-op Team Plans Cage Workout Wed. Eve.

The Greenbelt Lions-Co-op basketball team will hold practice sessions every Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Center School auditorium. All boys from Greenbelt and the surrounding area who are over eighteen years of age are urged to come down and try out for the team. Captain Pete Cookson will be on the floor to welcome them.

Additional information concerning schedules and playing dates will be announced later.

Letters To The Editor

Today was blue Monday. I had violated a parking regulation on Saturday night when I had also lost my bankbook en route to shopping before the Supermarket closed. At the bank my fears of being unable to withdraw money for the fine were smilingly allayed by Mr. Brautigam and my request for what I needed immediately granted. But at the Police station, Chief of Police Panagoulis told me that being a newcomer I should consider my first offense as a warning this one time. My blues were completely chased away by Mr. Dodson of the Co-op, who said he would be glad to contribute to the St. Hugh's collection of food for homeless men in Washington.

Each of these calls were impersonal business calls to men serving in a purely official capacity, yet the triple play of courtesy, consideration, and charity sent me home with spirits high, convinced that "It's good to be living in Greenbelt."

Mary Locke.

P.S. My first experiences in a neighboring town were with a dishonest real estate broker, a water bill collector and an unrelenting dog-catcher, which made me detest my locale till the day I left it.

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

I am very happy to thank the parents, and the teachers to bring up so nice and polite youngsters. I was all ready prepared to meet the monsters, with a lot of noise, bothering me to late in the evening, to do a little damage. Nothing doing. It start about 7 o'clock and the children stopped bothering me a little after 8 o'clock. They were about 32 in groups, from 6 years to 11 or 12 years old. The first visitor was a little girl about 7 or 8 years, all alone. When I asked her how come you are alone, she answered, "My dad is in the car watching me." That is the right way to do. If the parents will watch the children more and the teachers will teach the children the right way, we would have less accidents and less crimes. It means more schools and less prisons.

Sincerely,

Mrs. E. Kallen
8-F Laurel Hill.

BAKE SALE THANK YOU

On behalf of The Truman Riddle Navy Wives' Club of Greenbelt, I would like to thank every community organization and individual who contributed in making our October 16 Bake Sale a success. A check for the entire proceeds of the sale has been turned over to the Drop Inn Canteen.

Thank you again.
Kathryn E. Graviet,
Chairman.

THANK YOU

On behalf of the members of the Youth Center Advisory Board, I wish to publicly express thanks to the Truman Riddle Navy Wives Club for the substantial contribution received from their bake sale. The money will be used to provide much-needed additional seating for the Drop Inn.

Even more than the money we appreciate the adult interest in the young people of our community as demonstrated by the Navy Wives.

Jessie G. Walter, Treasurer
Youth Center Advisory Board.

WASHINGTON—Earl O. Shreve (right) is sworn in as National Director of the United States Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department by Chief Justice Warren. Holding the Bible for the ceremony is Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey.

Introducing the Chief Justice at the Treasury, Secretary Humphrey said: "Chief Justice Warren's taking part in this ceremony is indicative of the support of the Savings Bonds program at the very highest levels of the Government. More than 40 million individuals own $50 billion in these Bonds. The continued and expanding investment in America by Americans through these bond purchases helps to spread the ownership of the public debt and so contributes to our goal of sound money. It also develops the virtues of thrift and savings—virtues which have made America great."

Mr. Shreve, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, formerly vice-president of the General Electric Company in charge of sales and of customer relations, came out of retirement to serve the Nation in the promotion of thrift through the sale of Savings Bonds. Among his many public services were two terms as president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

TIPS TO CONSUMERS

Sweet Potato Price Low, Supply Plentiful

Take advantage of the plentiful supply of sweet potatoes on the October market. You'll find their prices low from now to Thanksgiving.

That information comes from marketing specialist Charles Porter, University of Maryland.

Not only that, the sweet potato is a prize package of food value—rich in vitamin A with a fair quantity of vitamin C and small amounts of vitamin B and minerals. In energy value, the sweet potato surpasses the white potato. A medium sized sweet potato gives you about 150 calories to the white potato's 100. You get the most food value from sweet potatoes by cooking them in their jackets and peeling them afterwards.

Porter says the most popular commercial sweet potatoes in the state, Maryland Goldens and Porto Ricos, are now at their peak. Maryland Goldens, dry and mealy, are rather light in color, while Porto Ricos have a deep yellow or orange color and are moist.

You can tell the quality of a sweet potato by its outside appearance. Good quality potatoes are well-shaped, firm and bright. Badly misshapen potatoes and whose with growth cracks or wire worm injury aren't desirable because of their wastefulness.

Sometimes you see small dark clay-colored spots on sweet potatoes which may unite and form dark blotches. These blotches are only skin deep and affect the appearance, not the flesh. Avoid buying a mixture of varieties because of differences in color, flavor and lack of uniformity in cooking.

Be careful how you store sweet potatoes, warns Porter. Although they are thought of as a non-perishable crop, sweet potatoes are very sensitive to temperature and moisture. According to the specialist, for home storage, sweet potatoes keep best at room temperature. Storage at a temperature below 50 degrees for a prolonged length of time will bring about decay.

Commercial sweet potatoes are cured immediately after digging for 10 to 14 days at 80-85 degrees in high humidity. Because of that, they aren't good keepers in home kitchens, and it's best to buy them in small lots and use promptly.

Sweet Potatoes Have A Variety of Uses

The sweet potato is a versatile food. You can bake sweet potatoes, serve them boiled, candied, fried, roasted, mashed, scalloped and in pies, puddings, custards, rolls, biscuits, cakes, or cookies.

Baked sweet potatoes, served rich and steaming in their skins, are good, nourishing and easy to prepare.

You can dress up baked sweet potatoes by splitting the skins and fluffing up the insides as you would baked white potatoes. Then, for a special touch, slip in a whole marshmallow and return the potato to the oven until the marshmallow is golden.

Here's another easy-to-prepare sweet potato treat:

Orange Candied Sweet Potatoes

- 6 medium sweet potatoes
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 2 tbsps. dark corn sirup
- 1 tbsp. grated orange peel
- 1/2 cup orange juice

Halve or slice peeled sweet potatoes. Melt butter in skillet; add brown sugar, sirup, orange peel and juice. Cook over low heat until the mixture is thickened. Add sweet potatoes and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Or you can cover in baking dish and cook in the oven. Serves 6.

Post Office Announces Savings Stamp Sales

During the 1952-53 school year, the City of Greenbelt post office sold $4,500 worth of United States Savings Stamps of the 10c and 25c denominations, it was announced yesterday by Postmaster Thomas R. Freeman.

"The 10c and 25c Savings Stamps are the most popular units used in the School Savings programs of our community," Freeman stated. "This large volume of sales indicates the constantly increasing participation of our youngsters in this worthwhile thrift program."

"The Treasury Department has announced that it hopes by December 31, 1953, to add at least 1,000,000 more students to the 5,000,000 now in schools having the School Savings Plan. Anticipating the increased enrollment, which will result in Greenbelt's active thrift program, the post office has received supplies of both Stamps and Albums during the summer and is fully prepared to continue serving all our schools for their weekly Stamp Days."

A recent report from the U.S. Savings Bond Division in Washington shows that overall Stamp sales the past school year amounted to $14,981,000, an increase of $900,000 over the previous year, Postmaster Freeman pointed out. The national total of individual Savings Stamp sales of the 10c and 25c denominations, the most popular with schools savers, was 78,168,000, which represented an increase of 6,000,000 over the number of individual Stamps sold the preceding school year. It is expected that an even greater volume of Stamps will be handled by the post offices of the nation during the current school year as a result of growing participation in School Savings.

Cancer Funds

Surplus funds received from the 1953 Cancer Crusade have already been apportioned, and in many instances, spent, toward a larger cancer control program in Maryland, according to Dr. C. Bernard Brack, president of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

With a goal of $310,000, some $383,975 was contributed by Marylanders in every city and county in the State.

The 1953 campaign surplus funds over and above the funds needed to cover the budget for all phases of the cancer control program in Maryland for the coming year, amounted to $34,000. Research grants were increased from $40,000 to $50,000.

Some $10,000 has been earmarked for professional fellowships and traineeships for Maryland scientists. This is the first time such a category has been established from Maryland funds.

The amount of $14,000 has already been divided between the University of Maryland School of Medicine and the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in the form of institutional grants for cancer research.

Dr. Brack said that even with the sizable increase in research funds available, the Cancer Society has still been unable to honor all the applications requesting funds for research that it has received.

The 1953 Cancer Crusade was the most successful ever held in Maryland to date. Maryland counties, with a target of $110,000, raised $150,934 or 137.2 per cent of their apportionment.

Nursery Group Sponsors Meeting November 16

The Prince Georges County Council of Cooperative Nursery and Kindergarten Schools announces that Dr. Katherine White-side Taylor, eminent educator, will speak November 16 at 8:30 p.m. at the 43rd Street School in Hyattsville. The school is located between Hamilton and Gallatin on 43rd Street in Central Hyattsville. The public is invited.

Dr. Taylor, now supervisor of parent education in the Baltimore Department of Education, has had long experience with parents' cooperative nursery schools. As a young mother and leader of parent education classes, she organized, for the benefit of her own three children, one of the first cooperative nursery schools in the United States, the Children's Community of Berkeley, California, and served for two years as its director.

She secured her doctorate at Columbia University in Child Guidance and Parent Education, later developing the present Family Life Education program of Seattle, Washington, which now has seventy-two cooperative nursery schools, the largest number in any city of the United States.

She has given courses or led institutes in the field of child guidance and family relations at the Universities of Iowa, Syracuse, Utah, Wisconsin, Washington, Chicago, California, and Teachers College, Columbia; also for the United States Office of Education.

Author of "Do Adolescents Need Parents?", she is on the editorial board of Understanding the Child, publication of the National Association for Mental Health and a member of the National Committee on Parent Education, and the National Council of Family Relations.

My Daze

OUR SON'S GOLDEN-HAIRED brown eyed schoolmate dropped by the house. As the first graders sat around, talking things over, our boy sprang a riddle on his visitor, "What is like the half of a lemon?" Grinning widely, and barely waiting for his friend to give up, our boy supplied the devastating answer, "The other half." The friend remained quietly wrapped in thought, rocking away. Finally, he brought his rocker to a halt as he inquired, "What did the carpet say to the floor?" It was our son's turn to admit he didn't know. "I've got you covered," said our guest in triumph. The pair adjourned outdoors for more physical recreation, denying me the pleasure of any further eavesdropping.

IT WAS A SECOND GRADE LESSON ON BIRDS, many years ago. The teacher called on Carl to say what birds did. Carl replied, "Birds hop and walk." "No," corrected the teacher pleasantly, "birds do not walk, they hop." "But I have seen birds hop AND walk," said Carl. "The lesson says," pursued the teacher patiently, "that birds hop." "I have seen birds hop AND walk" repeated Carl. "If you ask me what the lesson says birds do, I would say the lesson says that birds hop, but you asked me what birds do, and I say that birds walk as well as hop." The teacher said, "You will say that birds hop, and that is all." "No, I will not," insisted Carl, "for that would be lying." Try as she would, the teacher couldn't get Carl to say otherwise. It was painfully clear she was losing face before the other children in the class. She took Carl to the principal, whose authority, diplomacy and skill still could not overcome Carl's stubborn insistence that birds hop AND walk. His mother was summoned, and a compromise was effected. The teacher was not to ask Carl what birds did, and Carl was not to volunteer any answers about it. Today, Carl is a respected man of reputed integrity. THE TWO YEAR OLD ISN'T

HALF AS BRIGHT as he pretends. Although he articulates practically anything he hears, his understanding doesn't match the fluency of his speech. For instance, lately he keeps saying, "I have a idea", but won't reveal what it is, no matter how much we beg. We'd love to find out what the big idea is. —daisy.

PG and Montgomery Boards of Education Sponsor Radio Series To Discuss Schools

On Sunday, November 8, at 2:30 p.m., over station WGAY, Silver Spring, the first of six radio programs, sponsored by the Boards of Education of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, will be released. Experienced educators, authorities on the top-izens of both counties information and points of view which will help meet problems in education.

ics selected, and parents are cooperating to bring before the cit-

Each program will be tape-recorded on the Tuesday afternoon preceding the Sunday broadcast before a group of parents from each county. The purpose will be three-fold: (1) to give parent organizations an opportunity to participate in the question and answer period of the discussion; (2) to make it possible for parent organization representatives to report first hand to their groups the information and conclusions reached by the panel of experts; and (3) to create an audience situation wherein the panel of participants will be able to respond to the needs and inspiration of the guests present.

The subject of the first panel discussion will be "What Do We Expect from Our Schools?" Moderator will be Judge Alfred Noyes of the Juvenile Court of Montgomery County. The Panel will include Mr. William S. Schmidt, Supt. of Schools for Prince Georges County; Dr. Forbes Norris, Supt. of Schools for Montgomery County; Mrs. James Conant and Mr. Otis Lancaster, parents from Prince Georges County; Mr. Paul Marshall and Mrs. Dean Dinwoodey, parents from Montgomery County. This program will have been recorded at Langley Park Elementary School.

Topics for future panels include "School Buildings for Today's Education", "Why Can't They Walk to School?", "What's in the Hopper", "Schools Cost Money", "Getting and Keeping Our Teachers."

These programs are approved by the Boards of Education of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. Mrs. Joseph S. Yuill is coordinator; Mr. Leo Orso, technical advisor; Miss Rowannetta Allen, staff advisor from Prince Georges County; Mrs. Louis Walker, staff advisor from Montgomery County.

QUIZ ANSWERS

1. Greenbelt ordinances require that all bicycles be licensed. Improper parking, reckless driving or riding on sidewalks makes riders liable to a fine, and suspension of permit.
2. Discharge or carrying of any air-rifle, air-pistol, BB gun or sling-shot is prohibited, and they will be confiscated by the police when found.
3. Failure to report contagious diseases to the city office (GR. 3-2011) or to observe quarantines constitutes a violation of city ordinances.
4. Speed regulations conform to Maryland State laws, and are enforced by the Greenbelt police. Any reckless speed in courts, service drives and parking lots are violations of Greenbelt ordinances.
5. The nurse who visits the schools and who follows up on sickness in the home is the Public Health Nurse of the City of Greenbelt.

Fishing Lines

By Lee

Anglers, fishermen and worm-drowners: the new consignment of legal-sized big-mouth black bass has been deposited in the Greenbelt lake.

They were placed in the lake last Friday evening by the state game and fish commission. All these bass are above legal size (10") except two, and many of them will run above sixteen inches. One hundred of them were tagged. If you catch one with a tag, please send the tag to the Maryland Inland Fish Commission. This is the only way a record can be kept of the fish population in the lake, and on these records depends the restocking of the lake from time to time.

Willard Wilson of the 51 court Ridge made a swell catch last Sunday evening. He took three bass and one large bluegill. One of the bass was a seventeen and one-half inch fish which would run in the very close neighborhood of four pounds. They are taking artificial lure as well as live bait so boys get out and get your share, but be fair, leave a few for the one behind you. Don't take more fish than you can use.

Beefcake Here To Stay Says Rugged Alan Ladd

The plunging neckline for male movie heroes is here to stay, says Alan Ladd whose own bare chest has thrilled feminine fans from Arkansas to Zamboanga.

"It's just a matter of giving the ladies what they want," is the way Alan explained it on the set of Warner Bros.' "The Iron Mistress," in which he co-stars with Virginia Mayo. "In this enlightened day, when men no longer wear tops to their bathing suits, there seems to be small harm in exposing the male chest." The Technicolor adventure drama debuts Friday at the Greenbelt Theatre.

"As a matter of fact, the custom seems to be spreading to men's street attire. Walk out on Hollywood Boulevard and you're apt to see three out of five men wearing sport shirts. Of these three, two probably will have the top few buttons on their shirts unbuttoned. So if it's okay on the street it certainly can't be wrong on the screen.

"I think men like the idea because it makes them feel virile. The hairy chest has been a mark of virility since the days of the cave man. A few thousand years later they're perhaps not so hairy, but they're still virile."

Alan favors the bare chest idea in spite of the fact that in his current picture he's mostly buttoned up tight in a ruffled shirt. That's because the film deals with Jim Bowie, the famous knife fighter, in Louisiana about 1825, when gentlemen wore shirts that buttoned up tight under their chins.

"In those days," he explains, "they substituted color for deshabille. The males were the real peacocks of the day and a man could appear on the street in yellow trousers and a bright blue coat without incurring comment. Today a man in an ordinary business suit with a shirt and necktie looks like a million of his fellows. So he wears a sport shirt open to the third or fourth button and he feels like a real he-man."

Annual Church Bazaar Features Turkey Dinner

A pre-Thanksgiving turkey dinner will be a feature of the annual bazaar of the Community Church scheduled for Saturday, November 14.

The bazaar, which will include tables loaded with baked goods, confections, fancy work, white elephant items, fish pond (children's toys), greeting cards, note paper and books, will open at 10 a.m., and will provide an opportunity for selecting Christmas gifts and at the same time aid in completing the furnishings of the Fellowship Center.

The dinner of turkey and "all the fixings" will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. All Greenbelters are invited by the women of the Church to patronize the bazaar and dinner.

Health For All

How Do You Read?

Every few months we read about a new medical "miracle," as the magazines and newspapers keep us up to date on the phenomenal progress being made these days by medical and dental science.

Sometimes, however, the doctors wish we were informed either much less about medical matters, or much more correctly. After reading a headline, excited patients besiege the doctors demanding a new and unproved "cure." Keeping the news out of the press is not the answer. You and I have the right to know about new medical discoveries that may some day affect us. But we must learn to read beyond the headlines of a scientific news story.

Headlines are not supposed to tell a story, but to lead us to read the complete facts. There are not many articles which can't be trusted, and you can usually spot them by their sensational tone. Learn to watch for certain signposts. If the writer seems to be telling you: "This is it," "This disease has been definitely defeated," "This new discovery will cure everyone," that's the time to be doubtful.

Most science writers are very careful in announcing a new medical treatment. If it holds out hope, but has not been thoroughly tested, they will tell you that it is "based on a limited - -" or "a single study." You will see such words as "experimentally," "preliminary," "apparently," and "seems." When the writer says that the treatment "relieves" the symptoms of a disease, he does not mean that it will "cure" the disease.

Even if the "cure" seems completely proved, don't jump to the conclusion you can be cured. Every patient must be treated as an individual. Don't hesitate to ask your doctor about it. Take the article to him so that he will know what you're talking about. Sometimes a story will appear in the papers before the doctor has been able to read about it in his medical journal.

Don't expect the doctor to give you an immediate answer. Only if the new treatment has been thoroughly tested and shows promise for your case will he use it. The important point in any illness is to start with a doctor you trust and then accept his decision.

Visitors Criticize 'Rundown' Town

A top British community planner who visited Greenbelt during the past weekend commented on the present "rundown" condition of the city, according to a report in the Washington Post.

Lionel Brett, member of the Royal Fine Arts Commission and planner of eight proposed towns to ring London about 25 miles out, wanted to see Greenbelt during his visit to the D.C. area because it is "the only bit of Washington with an international reputation."

He also commented that Greenbelt's street plan "could do with a little more clarity."

Brett hoped to get some ideas for the London project since it calls for the creation of a "green belt" between London and a group of self sufficient villages "where you're really neighbors." However, unlike Greenbelt, the projects he is working on include towns of about 50,000 population, each containing all types of housing from efficiency units to two and three-story dwellings.

In addition, the projects, which are sponsored by the government, are to be 90 percent rented and ten percent occupant owned. Income is to be provided by liquidating the initial cost and maintenance over a 60-year period with the government subsidizing "a bit."

Gym Class For Kids Starting at Md. U.

A gymnastics class for boys and girls, ages 8 to 11, will be conducted by the Prince Georges County Recreation Department in cooperation with the College Park and University Park Recreation Councils on Saturday mornings, starting November 7.

Classes will be conducted at the Old Gym, University of Maryland, from 9 to 10:30 and 10:30 to 12.

Classes will include elementary and advanced tumbling, apparatus work, stunts, and trampoline, and will be under the direction of Andrew Quattrochi, Physical Education graduate, University of Maryland and P.E. instructor at the Thomas Stone Elementary School.

County Recreation Dept. Plans Fall And Winter Program

Plans for the fall and winter program of the Prince Georges Recreation Department were announced by Ellen Linson, Director, at the meeting of the county-wide Recreation Advisory Council last week. The Recreation Department will help organize and provide leadership for community groups wishing to conduct Teen Clubs; set up specialized after-school activity programs for children; organize basketball leagues for young people; and conduct leadership training institutes for leaders of youth groups.

Mrs. Linson also announced the addition to the Recreation Department staff of two Area Supervisors. Herbert Rathner will serve as Supervisor in the northern area of the County while Joseph Halper will serve in a similar capacity in the southern area.

Both Halper and Rathner will work with community groups wishing to conduct recreation programs for teen-agers and children and will be available in a consultation capacity to groups interested in improving community park and playground areas or constructing community centers.

Talented Pianist Makes Her Home In Greenbelt

Rosalie Sirlin, at 5-L Eastway, is one of the many talented young people who have moved into Greenbelt in the last month or two. A slim, pretty, dark-haired girl, Rosalie has studied piano for twenty-one years. She and her husband Herman came to the Washington area from Chicago, where Rosalie studied under Margit Varro, formerly with the Conservatory of Budapest.

At present, Rosalie commutes to New York for monthly lessons. Naturally, her ambition is to become a concert pianist, and she has auditioned for the Phillips Gallery in Washington. Accepted, it is planned that she will give a recital there next year. Closer, however, is a recital scheduled at the YWCA in Washington on November 22. This recital, for which there is no charge to the public, will feature such numbers as Bach-Partita, Schuman's Symphonic Etudes, Villa-Lobos, and Chopin's Ballade.

DAY CARE CENTER WEATHERS CRISIS

By Rae Algaze

The Greenbelt Day Care Center, a child-care institution established in Greenbelt in October, 1942, has once again come through a crisis. Several months ago its financial position was precarious, what with a number of families not certain if they were remaining in town, and others moving out in hordes. Now that this turnover has subsided somewhat, the Child Care Center has increased its enrollment, and is once more a going concern.

The Center has a few vacancies open for children from two to school age. Although it is chiefly used by parents for all-day care, children are also accepted on a part time basis, that is, for two or three days a week. Also, children who attend kindergarten or the primary grades will be accepted for that part of the day when they are not in school.

The Center is still operating under the same high health standards set by the Prince Georges County Board of Education and the Public Health Officer. Each morning the youngsters are checked by a competent member of the staff, before the parents leave for work, and once a week the school is visited by the Public Health nurse.

Professional supervision, child understanding, and all the other attributes which make this organization a fine, safe place to entrust children, are to be found here. The personnel at the Child Care Center welcome all those who would like to explore their facilities. Literature is available to those interested parents who want care for their children while they must be away during the day.

The Child Care Center is located at 14 Parkway, GRanite 3-5856, and is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Donald Campbell, Chairman of the Board of Directors, who may be reached by calling GRanite 4-7291 after 5 p.m.

Effective 12:01 A.M. November 8, 1953

What this step means to you Wider Range Dialing is an outstanding advance in your telephone service that will allow you to dial more calls, both Local and Long Distance, direct. The only contact you'll have with the operator will be when she comes on the line briefly to record your number. This new service is a step toward the day when you will be able to dial most of your own Long Distance calls. Even though your service will be faster, and you will be able to dial more calls direct, the rates for these calls remain the same as at present.

Calls you'll dial direct In the Washington Metropolitan Area, you'll be able to dial all calls direct to other telephones within this area, except

1. Calls from pay telephones and, for the present,
2. Calls to and from Crescent, Vienna, EVergreen 4 and CEdar 3 and calls from GRanite 3 and 4.

You'll also be able to dial station-to-station Long Distance calls to Annapolis, Baltimore, Frederick and certain other communities, except as listed above.

Starts 12:01 A.M. November 8 You'll find all the information you need about this great new telephone service in your Wider Range Dialing booklet. Message unit and typical Long Distance rates can be found in the front of your telephone directory. If, by any chance, you haven't received your copy of the Wider Range Dialing booklet, just call our Business Office and we'll be glad to send you one.

Boys Club Team Looks Good For County Title

By E. DonBullian

The Greenbelt Boys Club 105-lb. football team seems to be well on its way to a county championship with 4 wins out of 4 and only 2 games left to play.

The most recent victory, last Saturday against Mt. Rainier, was a work of art and a coach's delight. Head Coach Chuck Link and his staff should feel proud as their coaching efforts were very much in evidence throughout the game.

To pick an outstanding player would do an injustice to the rest of the boys. Several boys, however, made the most of their opportunities. Ted McCord only scored 3 touchdowns on runs of 32, 40 and 60 yards. His second TD was a thing of beauty, in which he reversed his field several times and finally broke loose for the score. Pete Bowman used both his height and speed in scoring 2 TD's. He jumped and caught White's pass in the end zone for the first; his second covered 75 yards, a 25-yard pass from Andrusic and a run of 50 yards. John Matson's TD was the result of a 15-yard power drive through center. He played a good game at fullback. Billy Andrusic scored his TD on a Mt. Rainier fumble which he caught on the fly and flew for 50 yards; he also kicked an extra point.

Dale White's quarterbacking was excellent. He mixed his plays well and had the Mt. Rainier team bewildered during most of the game. His interception of a pass on the 5-yard line, with which he scored, was timed perfectly.

The line did exceptionally good work throughout the game as indicated by the score. Especially noticeable were the efforts of Taylor at end, who at one time substituted for a halfback and came up with a run of 25 yards. Both guards Dunn and Cain played exceptionally well. An unusual feature of the game was the calling of only one penalty, against Mt. Rainier for running a sleeper play, which is illegal in Boys Club play.

Saturday's game with Lanham should decide the championship.

Homemakers Corner

Cooking With Honey

When you eat honey, you're not only enjoying one of nature's treats, but you're also helping to assure the country of continued supplies of 50 or more important crops that depend almost entirely on the honeybee for pollination.

Not only that, honey is an energy producing food, and contains more energy value than sugar because it is heavier. One and one-half tablespoons of honey furnishes approximately 100 calories.

Use honey, measure for measure, in place of sugar in preparing puddings, custards, pie fillings, baked apples, candied and "sweet-sour" vegetables, salad dressings, and cinnamon toast. Honey, brushed or dribbled on ham during the last half-hour of baking, adds flavor and gives a golden glaze.

Cakes and cookies made from honey remain moist in storage. Some improve in flavor when aged a few days. Crisp cookies, however, are likely to lose crispness on standing. Some honey candies and frostings may stay too soft in humid weather.

For cakes and cookies made with honey, you'll get best results if you use recipes developed especially with honey as an ingredient. However, you can use honey for part of the sugar in other recipes.

For example, in cakes honey can replace as much as one-half of the sugar without making it necessary to change the proportion of other ingredients.

In cookies, the amount of honey that can replace the sugar varies with the type of cookies. For gingersnaps replace no more than one-third of the sugar with honey. For brownies, honey may be used for half of the sugar, and for fruit bars, up to two-thirds of the sugar.

Junior High News

The "welcome mat" will be out at the Junior High School on Thursday, November 12 to all parents and interested persons who desire to observe classes in session.

This procedure will be part of the school's observance of American Education week which runs from November 8 through 14. Mr. Allan Chotiner, Principal of the school, wishes to emphasize that parents are welcome to visit classes at any time during this week and at any other times during the school year, but that on Thursday special attention will be given to visitors. They will be met at the entrance to the school and asked to register in order that a complete tally of visitors for the day may be made. Visitors will then be escorted to the classes they wish to observe.

The PTA of the Greenbelt Junior High School will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, November 11 in the new gymnasium.

In keeping with American Education Week, all books used by the school will be on display in the gymnasium as well as a display of students' art work. According to information received from the principal, the PTA has been working on an 8-page booklet entitled "Your Junior High School" which will be distributed at the meeting.

The school library will also be open to visitors.

Christmas Seal Sale Starts November 16

The 1953 Christmas Seal Sale of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated county associations will begin on Monday, November 16 and continue until Christmas Day, it was announced today by Dr. Russell A. Nelson, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

In keeping with the policy of the National Tuberculosis Association, no county goals have been set by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association for this year's campaign, the 47th Annual Christmas Seal Sale conducted in the United States to raise funds for tuberculosis control work.

However, according to Dr. Nelson, it is hoped that this year's Christmas Seal Sale will exceed that of 1952 when $413,428.45 was raised in Maryland. Of this total, $266,078.60 was raised by the county associations and $147,349.85 by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association in Baltimore City.

Funds raised during the Christmas Seal Sale are directed by the tuberculosis associations toward the prevention, detection, and treatment of tuberculosis through health education, medical research, rehabilitation and social services to tuberculosis patients, and tuberculosis detection programs.

MEN'S GYM TONIGHT

Every Thursday for the past month the attendance has increased over the previous week. Last week about 30 men participated. Also, a few curious bystanders.

A great deal of interest has been shown in both volleyball and basketball to date. With basketball season approaching, twenty or thirty more men are wanted for a town basketball league. Those interested should appear tonight to start organizing teams.

For further information, call Donnie Wolfe at the Recreation Department or Lynn Buck, evenings, GRanite 4-7037.

SODALITY ELECTS OFFICERS

At a meeting of the St. Hugh's Teen-age Sodality held Sunday, November 1, the following girls were elected to serve as officers for the coming year: Prefect, Mary Ann D'Esposito; vice-prefect, Mary Madden; secretary, Henrietta Haslinger, and treasurer, Maura Henry. Installation of officers and reception of new members into the Sodality will be held in December. New members are welcome and anyone desiring to be installed in the Sodality is urged to contact Mrs. Dolores Root, the moderator.
